What is a disciple?

Yeshua had twelve disciples. Their names were Simon Peter, Andrew, James (son of Zebedee), John, Philip, Bartholomew, Thomas, Matthew, James (son of Alphaeus), Thaddaeus, Simon the Zealot and Judas Iscariot. (Matthew 10:1-4 and Luke 6:12-16.)

Let's learn what it means to be a disciple.

Before the time of Yeshua, discipleship was already a well-established process within Hebrew culture. To become a disciple, you first had to finish Bet Midrash. This was where boys aged 13-15 studied the entire Tanakh (Old Testament) while learning the family trade. Boys who finished Bet Midrash were then invited by a teacher to become his disciple. These disciples were known as talmidim and they learned everything from their teacher. They ate the same food as their teacher ate, they learned to keep the Sabbath the way their teacher kept the Sabbath, and they studied the Torah exactly the same way as their teacher. A disciple had four jobs; to memorize his teacher's words, to learn his teacher's traditions and interpretations, to imitate his teacher, and after he was fully trained, he would become a teacher and teach disciples of his own.

"Every disciple fully trained will be like his teacher." (Luke 6:40)

I imitate Yeshua everyday by...
